*If you plan to take concurrent enrollment courses on BYU campus or at another university, please contact them regarding their requirements for concurrent enrollment, as their standards may differ from ours. Please also note that you may have to apply separately for concurrent enrollment with these institutions.

Requirements for concurrent enrollment:

- Students must have at least a 3.0 GPA to participate in concurrent enrollment courses.
- Students must have completed at least twelve (12) high school credits to participate in concurrent enrollment courses.
- Concurrent enrollment courses count for one (1) high school credit and three (3) university credits.
- Only the following courses or their equivalent may be taken through concurrent enrollment and counted for high school credit: A HTG 100 (American Heritage), PL SC 110 (American Government and Politics), PHY S 100 (Physical Science), BIO 100 (Principles of Biology), MATH 110 (College Algebra), MATH 111 (Trigonometry), and ENGL 115 or 150 (Writing and Rhetoric).
- Students who would like to complete courses through colleges or universities other than BYU or BYU Independent Study must submit a course description of the course with this application. Courses taken at other colleges or universities that do not meet our requirements may count as elective credit.

Note: It is possible that courses taken through BYU or BYU Independent Study may not transfer to the student's college of choice. Please check with your college or university for information regarding transferring credits.
